Why Voiplex?

Voiplex provides an affordable, fully featured telephony system for businesses of all sizes backed by an expert support group to manage all your voice communication needs.

When calling, your customers will hear a professional switchboard, with department options and get a great first impression of your company.

With free calls between your offices and with most international tariffs from 1p per minute you spend far less on your phone calls than your competitors.

Your business phone system will have all standard features such as voicemail, music on hold, call transfers, caller identification along with advanced features such as built in teleconferencing, remote access to voicemails, setting up custom ringing plans for departments and much more.

You can even integrate your mobile phone to your office extension. This enables you to receive incoming office calls wherever you may be and make outgoing calls from your mobile using the excellent call tariffs starting from 1p per minute.

All this adds up to a faster, more efficient telecom system for your company, which not only saves money on calls and provide a more professional image, but will also improve your operations, leaving you more time to grow your business.

As your requirements change, your phone system can be easily extended with additional handsets, features and software applications being simple and cost-effective to install. You thus avoid the high installation and maintenance costs associated with other legacy telephony systems.

Voiplex technology was developed in collaboration with Imperial College and with a grant from London Innovation. Since the first live production installations in 2004, Voiplex has installed numerous phone systems in the UK and has provided a fully managed service resulting in huge savings for all our customers.
